In the summer of 2019, 16,000 libraries across the country will celebrate space exploration in their summer reading programs. The slogan "A Universe of Stories" was chosen by library professionals to help inspire children of all ages to dream big, believe in themselves, and create their own story. CSLP and STAR Net are partnering to share STEM resources with these libraries.

This summer learning program will coincide with NASA’s 50th Anniversay of the Apollo Moon Landing.

Community Dialogues in YOUR Library

What is a Community Dialogue?

- Think of it like a focus group, but instead of testing a product, you’re gauging your community’s opinions on your venue, and the services your community needs.
- A Community Dialogue is a loosely facilitated discussion that provides the opportunity for staff and community members to discuss a common, community-based challenge or aspiration.

“There is no doubt that the Community Dialogues are beneficial to all parties. I think this method should be employed more often when we are considering all kinds of services, initiatives and programs for our community.”

Lisa Jackson - Youth Services Librarian, African-American Research Library and Cultural Center, Fort Lauderdale, FL
• You know how your “frequent flyer” patrons use your venue, but what about the people who don’t come through the door? Are there services they would use that they don’t know about? Is there some reason they don’t feel welcome?

• But it’s more than just getting people in the door, it’s an opportunity to make new partners, and further cement your venues as a community hub.
What do they look like?

- 1-4 hours
- Participation that represents the community you live in
- People you already know AND people you don’t
- Change makers
- But most importantly, they should look relevant for the groups you’re working with
Why do we do them?

• Identify underserved and underrepresented audiences in your community who may not be fully utilizing your services

• Identify potential partners (and funders!!)

• Identify your own biases when it comes to providing services for different communities

• Encourage new patrons but showing everyone who doesn’t already participate, that libraries are much more than they think/remember from their childhoods!
A Successful Dialogue Can Help Your Venue

• Expand your understanding of patrons’ and visitors feelings about their local library/ISE venue and its programs, including programming related to STEM

• Obtain meaningful feedback from the community on who visits the venue and why

• Have a conversation about how the venue can better serve ethnically, economically, and geographically underserved and underrepresented audiences

• Better connect with local organizations and potential future partners that have shared interests with your organization and community
An UnSuccessful or Poorly Attended Dialogue Can Help Your Venue

- Identify gaps in your marketing and outreach plans
- Convince Directors or boards that you need to reach out in new and creative ways
- Understand why certain people/groups didn’t feel welcome at the table
- Identify better strategies for reaching out for try #2!
“Public libraries are a pillar of education for all. We have an opportunity and a responsibility to offer educational experiences for our communities. STEM learning is part of this and highly important for the continued development and health of our society, both intellectually and economically.”

Community Dialogue Goals

1. Strengthen informal education venues roles in establishing a STEM Learning Environment

2. Identify underrepresented community groups

3. Identify possible collaborations and partnerships within the community

4. Contribute to developing a flexible Community Dialogue model that all ISE venues can use

Collective Impact

Community Dialogues → Community Engagement
Ground Rules

1. Have a “kitchen table” conversation
   Everyone participates; no one dominates.

2. There are no “right answers”
   Draw on your own experiences, views and beliefs. You do not need to be an expert.

3. Keep an open mind
   Listen carefully and try hard to understand the views of those who disagree with you.

4. Help keep the discussion on track
   Stick to the questions; try not to ramble.

5. It is okay to disagree, but don’t be disagreeable
   Respond to others how you want to be responded to.

6. Have fun!
How We Got Started with this Model

• It actually started to help ME develop an exhibit and programming (Discover Health)

• Initially invited only library staff and Area Health Education Center Partners

• Some libraries started inviting other groups and community leaders and it became clear that these informal discussions could have a much broader impact
Key Outcomes from Discover Health Dialogues

- New partnerships with organizations like immigration services, heritage and cultural centers, tribal libraries, Area Health Education Centers, and Hispanic Chamber of Commerce

- 2 Libraries added more welcoming signage to their front doors

- 1 library completely changed a display that was sending the wrong message to their target population
Who to invite?

Science
Area Education
STEM Council
Community College
State Library
Principals
Elementary Teachers
Innovative School Leader
City Council Members
Library Association
Engineering Department at local university
If possible former or current employees at NASA
Home School
Library Director

“On May 7, 2018 a group of educators, STEM professionals and community leaders gathered for a roundtable discussion at the Macron County Public Library in an effort to get a better picture of what MCPL’s NASA program could bring to the county and what sorts of needs exist in STEM education here. One of the primary focuses of the discussion was improving access and engagement for STEM, by offering programs that are relevant to the people living in Western North Carolina.” The Franklin Press.
“Community Dialogue attendees have shown strong support for library STEM programs and would like to meet again. We have plans to meet again next year, which allows for enough time to implement new strategies and reflect upon impacts.” – Dianna Leighton, Fort Fairfield Public Library

“This dialogue was very useful in setting up collaborations. The attendees weren’t as keen on discussing issues as they were on talking and working together!” Mary Jenkins, Clarksdale Carnegie Public Library
“Participants took off running—I was barely able to get questions in, but it was all good because by themselves they covered most of the questions” — Charles Diede, Fontana Library

“When the facilitator set the tone for a fluid conversation among attendees, they seemed to be more willing to jump in and provide insight and opinions. Participants were encouraged to gather close together (even though the room we were in was quite large) so that it was easier to hear one another and to participate in the discussion” — Atlas Logan, Gwinnett County Public Library
Other outcomes from NASA@ My Library Dialogues

• Large increase in library cards created by latinx patrons

• Bilingual story-time ran by new partner (cultural club)

• New partners from multiple sectors (NASA visitor centers, schools, cultural organizations, boys and girls club, VFW, parks and recreation departments, and more!

• Monthly programs with scientists

• Donations from participating individuals and organizations
Suggestions from libraries who have already conducted these dialogues

• Plan ahead. Some libraries weren’t able to promote the dialogue far in advance so some key players who would have otherwise attended (State librarian, state level representatives) were unable to make it
• Invite the people you’re wanting to serve. Be concerned with the idea of programming AT target audiences, rather than involving them in the process.
• Consider a neutral location. If the groups who aren’t visiting your library are more comfortable elsewhere, go there to meet with them. If they don’t want to join a big meeting, have a small one. Be flexible.
• Remember your role in these dialogues. You’re a convener, and if needed, a facilitator. Don’t feel like you need to “run” the meeting. Let the tough questions play out. Let things get heated.
• Make it FUN! Make it a party, have snacks, do some activities.

Planning Your Community Dialogue

Who to Invite

The focus should be on bringing in new partners and more voices to the conversation and connecting with groups not normally represented at the library. In order to keep the audience size manageable, try to focus on a few groups for each dialogue. You can schedule more Community Dialogues in the future to gain additional insight.

Invitees could include stakeholders and individuals from groups such as:

- Education (e.g., universities, colleges, community colleges, local school districts, teachers, PTA/PTO, homeschool representatives, afterschool providers, etc.)
- Local government agencies and government labs
- The Chamber of Commerce and business organizations (e.g., tech companies, engineering firms, advertising agencies)

Library Quote

“it made sense to us to hold two Community Dialogues, one in the afternoon and one in the evening on the same day. The afternoon event was held for local educators, homeschool parents, 4H groups, etc. People working directly with the kids who would benefit from our efforts. The evening group was held for elected officials, members of local groups such as Optimists, PTO, school administrators, clergy, other area librarians, etc. People who are still connected with the community’s needs, but do so on a more administrative level. Both dialogues featured good discussion and I think it was a good way to focus the conversation for each group.”
